I never thought I'd own another pair of Bose because I've HATED every pair 3 or 4 pairs I've had in the past!!! Anyways, I don't know anything about them but they are not the typical Bose. These are a straightforward standard set of 2 way speakers. They say maximum 100 watts and 75 watts continuous. The cabinets are black and are ported with 2 ports in each one. The vinyl veneer is scraped and scratched here and there but otherwise in really good shape. What caught my eye was the woofers look better than average. The foam looks fairly thick and is in excellent shape. Long story short, I hooked these up to my Harman Kardon 55 watt per channel in stereo mode 5.1 receiver and they sounded very impressive in the bass. Even the highs and mids weren't as bad as I was expecting. I listened to all sorts of material through them and was shocked at how good they did sound. The bass was the most impressive thing about the sound of them; solid, deep and controlled. Anyways, anybody know anything about them. I've searched all over the internet and cannot find anything out. There is lots of pictures of the Interaudio 4000XL which looks identical. But these aren't the XL model. There's not even info about the XL model. There is tons about them in other countries and languages mostly European but nothing in English. Any help is appreciated. Thanks! They also look to be a nice size. Does the big dustcap mean the voice coils are huge? I was really surprised at how good they sounded. I took them apart to experiment with and I can't remember how the speakers and crossover were wired.

If you happen to look inside of them maybe you could right it down or make a drawing of the layout for me, if not don't worry about it. What are you looking for? When they were made already answered, etc. Thanks. I'll get around to taking one apart to peep inside. At least I have never seen any for speakers. I always end up finding and buying oddball speakers that are hard to find any info on for some reason. At least half of my 50 pair collection is that way. One good example is I have a pair of Empire speakers from the late 50s or early 60s that nobody can tell me about. They are NOT the typical Granadier models that you see all over the place with marble tops. They have coated dome mids and bullet tweeters. All alnico of course. But they sure sound awesome. Can't get any info on what model they are or anything of the sort. I'm not complaining but it seems kind of strange. I live about 5 miles from the Atomic capital of the world. There's people come to live here from all over the world to make big money lots of RocketHeads; literally. That's a BIG plus on my part when looking for stereo equipment. They get tired of it or it starts needing work done and they donate to thrift stores. I've got to stop buying for a while as I'm out of space and don't need any more speakers. Yes, I'm a speakerholic and I need help! What little I listened to them put them on par with 301s which are really not bad. I'd expect the 4000s to be a bit better. My parents have a pair that they use for surround speakers. Although the front of them do look pretty impressive. Some of the best drivers I've heard look really generic. I'll take a woofer out and peek later today. I think with a good silk dome tweeter that could be crossed over low enough, these would be really great speakers within their limits. The cone tweeters sound way better than expected but are just naturally beamy. Thanks for all the replies and no Bose bashing. I've been guilty of plenty of Bose bashing myself in the past.

Now I have to eat my words! Although the front of them do look pretty impressive. Now I have to eat my words. Click to expand. EPI and KLH come to mind. Was wondering more who made them. While I wouldn't use cone tweeters in a speaker system intended for studio monitoring purposes, for more casual use I think most wellbuilt cone drivers can sound pretty good. In my experience their most obvious audible deficiencies usually their response doesnt make it quite as far up the frequency scale as other drivers do that use lighter radiating surfaces; their relatively narrow dispersion angle, which can make the listening window rather small. Though lens systems can help improve that, which is what I assume this Bose uses. Bose aint all bad, I just think there are better speakers out there. I really like JBLs. in general. some of Their later stuff is lame, too, on the cheaper end of the scale, of course. read affordable. Enjoy yours!!!. willhowlyesIp ersonally think it was one of their better, sensible product line. While they were conventional they all sounded good. I have heard 1 or 3 Interaudio model and walked away pleased at their effort. But with the market be VERY competitive one knew they could not stay long, after all they had their own niche by now. I say if you get the chance do give them a good audiotion you might well be pleased! DCClick to expand. The Interaudio line first appeared in the mid70s. At that time, there were 4 models in the line up Interaudio 1000, 2000, 3000, and 4000. They all used drivers found in the Bose 301, 501 and 601 of the same generation. For this reason, Bose carried the exact same warranty support for them just as they did for their main brand speakers. The dealers won because the selling margin was higher for Interaudio than any other speaker line a dealer carried. Bose won because they could attract more dealers into the Bose distribution channel.

The consumer won because he got a pretty good speaker and a highly competitive price point, as our OP has discovered. The models being discussed here appear to be the Series II or III, depending on when they were actually purchased. Since they were private label models, there was no advertising or product reviews done on them while they were on the market. This is why there is little available about them. Cheers, DavidThe foam surrounds on the woofers are still in fine shape, and they sound just great go figure. I was impressed with the sound of the pair on display, and didnt expect much bringing them home. But theyve remained part of my livingroom home theater system, of course with added center, surrounds, and sub. Anyhow, Im sure these speakers wont impress everyone, but they are and were decent performers. BTW these were made in USA, a rarity these days. Subscribe to our free newsletter Request a new review My opinion on the lack of upper midrange, I think, because these speakers are two voices, a boomer 25 cm diameter and a tweeter, so devoid of HP medium, it is necessary that these two HP share the task of medium sounds, which is not necessarily obvious!, the woofer is very present and a large diameter, restores, understandably, low medium is evident, unlike cabasse to have a dual woofer 17 cm as I mentioned above and a very effective tweeter, and therefore more comfortable in the medium because of the low HP of smaller diameter. I never possd Bose ctait a good opportunity to check it ear shot, even if it may cost in everywhere. There was also supplied with feet. The speakers are lgres but robust, and once the protection of pregnant enlevs, there is a very nice tweeter and woofer imposing. SONORITS Coupled amp Yamaha CR200L and a CD player Pioneer, I cost Bose with all electronic in its range. At the First listen, we are quickly amazed by the presence of bass and treble clarity. Strophonique The picture is good, thanks precisely these very acute dfinis well. The bass is impressive for speakers of this size, but they do not do not shake your house. This is certainly, by the way, making its success from the standard clientele, one that does not seek motion in music but only printing. Thus, the sound is flat, very flat, no dynamism. HP is a medium in this chamber size indispensable my opinion. NOTICE GLOBAL I possde these speakers for 4 years, but I will costs only rarely because I possde several more efficient systems. However, even if they do not fit my tastes, they can remain a good choice in some onreux system Did you find this review helpful yes no. A friend has had me in and I must say I heard anything like the bass nivo. I have not terrible stuff a day of crap amp aiwa all connect to the pc, and also connect the turntable vinyl pc. SOUNDS The sound is really excellent, in the lower notament.

The acute and medium are satisfactory but the bass limit it seems to have a subwoofer. My apartment is relatively small, so I push her a little low they really feel That the neighbors are happy as a solution with a stereo amp not top the record is completely impressive. OVERALL OPINION It was one week I bought and I must say I resell Im really meet these criteria I have 120 euros to buy secondhand pair, and I do not think there are better quality level relative prices. One senses immediately the quality of the material and the perennial whichis really good quality. In my opinion we just keep it 20 years without deteriorating the most The bass The ratio price quality the least The midrange and treble that sometimes parraissent faiblar a little low compared to The size is quite large even qd 1 people found this review helpful Did you find this review helpful yes no. In fact I pay the pair at a price. Too cool. I used them as a forum hi fi Stereo plugs into an amp yamaha. They are derrire amp behringer A500, connected to a small mixing desk. Cest plutt correct. Jai true cost of active monitors, but I dont believe t SOUNDS The XL4000 is pluttgnreuse bose in the low frequencies, like English speakers. Average in the mdium and well in the acute. And its tough. Its not easy to make a trs final mix, I compare the headphone. If not for live, its top. Cashing them well. I correct the equalizer with a mdiums OVERALL OPINION I have 15 years Jaime big boomer, he moves well gnreusement. When I bought it immediately made me crack. Rodes And now, Im not telling you. The two high winds too. However, the hull is plutt unsightly. Given that the era, I pay the price of a pair, the ratio quality price is final. I think today, used good price, I do it again this choice. Of course if I have the means, I would take the active monitors 1 people found this review helpful Did you find this review helpful yes no.

SOUNDS Their prsence in the bass is outstanding and above all a high standard. Also I use the 4000xl with other Boses, the 301 series IV, and they compltent in the same frequencies and trs well. My only complain is that the package includes only the rubber. In order to place the new one, you need to extract the screws and remove the cosmetic cover of the exterior steel ring. Because it is so old and glued strongly, you need to break it. There is no replacement for it. In the Cervin Vega package, you get that cover. As it is only for cosmetic, there is no affect on the sound. Anyhow, it is hidden by the speaker's cover.

They have a heavier magnet and more throw than the the originals I took out. Upon powering the new ones up I was absolutely blown away. I've owned these 501's since they were new 1983 and they have never sounded this way. WOW! These replacements knock the socks off the originals. Every since our 501s were new the original woofer seemed to have problem with the bobbin knocking the magnet under heavy load. It sounded really bad. Your replacements have none of this problem. They create "punch" like I've never heard from the 501s. Wow, Wow, Wow is all I can say! Thank you very much for offering these great speakers. They have made our Bose 501s sing and now properly again. I would recommend this item as a replacement speaker. Very much satisfied with both speakers and speaker cloth. The speakers ROCK. The replacement woofers were an exact fit, an easy installation, and met my expectations. Thanks! Quick, prompt, accurate delivery. Replaced blown speaker in my Bose speaker, and was surprised to find the replacement was much better than the original. Great job, folks at Simply Speakers Had blown one of the original woofers, guess you just cant count on those things lasting over 30 years. Fit was great, only took a few minutes to swap them out. Sound is really solid. Probably a bit more punchy than the originals, but in a good way. Very crisp sounding, would recommend. Called them helped me with what I needed. Great place, great service, great prices Fit and installed nicely. I could not get a Bose replacement speaker in my area ten years ago and replaced it with a similar Pioneer replacement speaker. I am giving the replacement speaker only four star rating as the Pioneer still sounds better than the replacement and it is already nine years old in the cabinet. My Bose 501s are probably the original series one originally purchased in 1980. I have a Bose 501 SN 019380 with a blown woofer.

Is this a good replacement woofer Do the speakers come with the outer mounting ring Tks Send us a photo of the original, along with the specs, and we will see if it is a good option. Thanks. Something went wrong. View cart for details. All Rights Reserved. User Agreement, Privacy, Cookies and AdChoice Norton Secured powered by Verisign.
